Rosa Parks, My Story

1. What is the problem faced by the main character?

Rosa Parks faced discrimination and racial segregation.

2. How did the main character solve this problem?

She decided to “take a stand” and commit civil disobedience. She decided to face the consequences of her actions in order to act on her belief in racial equality.

3. Why did the main character make this decision?

She believed her actions would serve to “make a point” about segregation laws.

4. What were the effects of that decision?

Her arrest and trial became a test case for the NAACP. The case went all the way to the Supreme Court, and the segregation laws of Montgomery, Alabama were ruled unconstitutional.

5. Was this solution effective?

Rosa Parks achieved her goal.

6. What choice would you have made?

Answers will vary.

7. How would other people in the same time and society have viewed your choice?

Answers will vary.
